Enjoying Literature In Seattle

Sharp Teeth is a book that I just happened to pick up recently at my local Barnes and Noble, it was looking all sad and lonely, sitting there by itself on the remainder table.

I took a chance for six bucks hardcover, and I must say I am impressed!

A novel in verse, seemingly a very odd form in this day and age, but it's fast, exciting, and a very fun read. I must recommend it, and certainly hope that the author follows it up with a second novel.

For more traditional poetry, I've been enjoying myself with Flowers Of Evil, all online, by Charles Baudelaire.

Lastly, this week I read Perversity Think Tank by Supervert. Interesting, and I even gained a bit of a new perspective on the kinks I so love. It can be purchased in hard copy, or downloaded at no cost.
